BENTLEY BLOWER JNR

CONFIGURATION GUIDE

Exquisite design. Exhilarating performance. Engineered precision.
The opportunity to unite your history with ours.

Model shown is in a pre-production state. Configurable options subject to change ahead of launch.

Not merely a vehicle, this faithful 85% scale recreation of the iconic 1929 Bentley Blower is a true testament to enduring quality, luxury, and the celebration of illustrious automotive history.

This fully road-legal* scaled car, the largest ever made by Hedley Studios, has been designed to reflect the iconic design and characters that the original Bentley Blower is renowned for.

The Blower Jnr is our salute to the past but with a fully electric 48-volt powertrain to deliver modern performance and enjoyment. A homage to the trailblazers who established the brand and a recognition of the discerning motorists who have kept the Bentley spirit alive through the years.

From the artisan-crafted carbon fibre body with an aluminium bonnet to the iconic supercharger repurposed as a charging port, each component is a testament to our relentless pursuit of quality and sophistication.

Blue Pack.

To win a bet in 1930, Woolf Barnato raced his Bentley Speed Six and beat the famous Blue Train from the Côte d'Azur to Calais.

This was an achievement that was so successful, that a re-run of the race in 2015 saw a modern day Continental GT3-R only just beat Barnato's average speed. While the Speed Six was green, this pack features a Dawn Blue exterior and Atlantic Blue interior in a nod to the famous train.

Red Pack.

The Team Bentley Blower No. 1 was a track car created for Sir Tim Birkin to race at the famous banked circuit of Brooklands.

Birkin famously set the lap record at an average speed of 137.96mph in 1932, with his car often airborne due to the poor, uneven concrete surface of the track.

Grey Pack.

In 1929 when the Bentley Blower shot to fame at the Le Mans 24 Hour Race, it was actually the Speed Six that took home first place, before repeating the feat again in 1930. As one of the only cars in history to win the Le Mans race twice, the Speed Six has rightly earnt its place in automotive racing history.

After winning its second Le Mans, the 'Old No. 1' was converted by Woolf Barnato to a road going coupe in this striking gunmetal grey exterior finish.

White Pack.

Nothing says timeless style and elegance quite like a light colour palette on a pre-war Bentley.

The choice of Old English White exterior paint with a Cricket Ball hide interior will be a familiar one to those well versed in the Bentley brand. Designed to reflect the liveries of years gone by, this combination has been a favourite on modern Bentley's in recent years.

Green Pack.

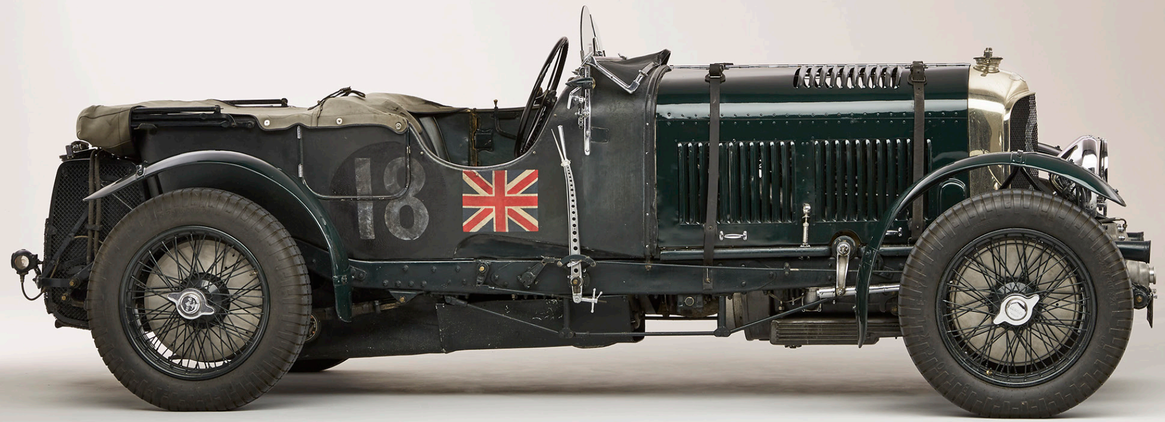

When you think of classic racing Bentley's from years gone by, you think of British Racing Green. First adopted by Bentley in the 1920's, this colour quickly became the colour for all British racing cars throughout the decades since.

British Racing Green has gone through many shades over the years, and British Racing Green 4 is the current shade used on Bentley's modern range of cars.
